A teacher (also called a school teacher or, in some contexts, an educator) is a person who helps others to acquire knowledge, competences or values.. Informally the role of teacher may be taken on by anyone (e.g. when showing a colleague how to perform a specific task). In some countries, teaching young people of school age may be carried out in an informal setting, such as within the family ...

As Andrew DelBarco, director of American studies at Columbia University, notes, most of the media discussion today tells us very little about what a good college ought to be and what we do (or should do) for students. There is, for example, the potentially distracting conversation about the economic return of individual majors. In many ways, this is an entirely reasonable concern.
